2015 Results: Carton Recycling Rates Rising in Canada

This past January, I celebrated my one-year anniversary as Managing Director of the Carton Council Canada (CCC). Throughout the year, my approach has been to work with stakeholders across all stages of the recycling value chain in order to grow recycling of used food and beverage cartons in Canada. With that in mind, we have implemented a number of initiatives over the past year to help build a sustainable carton recycling supply chain.

Isabelle Faucher
Managing Director

CCC has found that efforts to promote the recycling of food and beverage cartons in Canada drive results. The data for 2015 shows that the national recycling rate for food and beverage cartons has grown significantly in recent years. Just five years ago, the carton recycling rate stood at 48.2%. By 2014 it had risen to 51.2%, and last year it reached 52%.

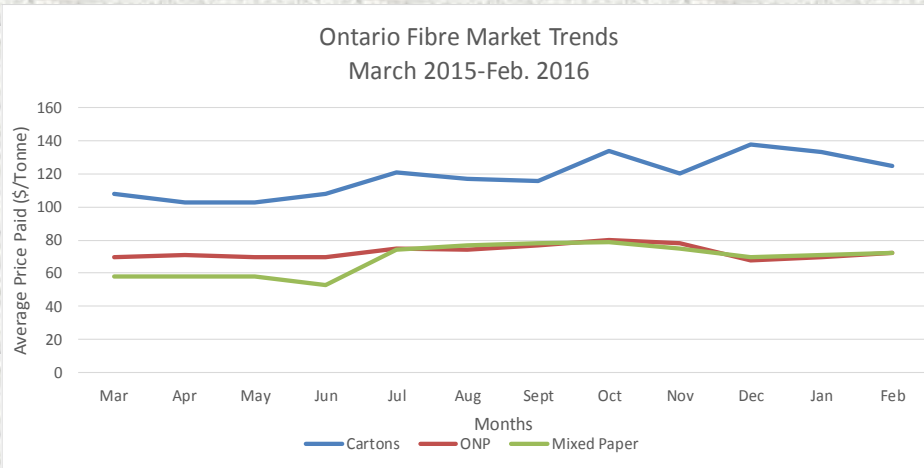

We look forward to continuing the strong collaboration with key stakeholders to drive carton recycling. We welcome feedback, and any comments or ideas that can help us in our pursuit to grow carton recycling across the country.

CARTON GRADE MARKET VALUE

Despite low oil prices and unsteady overall post-consumer recyclable materials pricing, carton pricing and movement has been relatively steady.

SIGNIFICANT GROWTH IN VOLUMES OF USED CARTONS MARKETED IN ONTARIO

Based on recently released 2014 Ontario municipal information prepared by Waste Diversion Ontario, the volume of gable top and aseptic cartons marketed by municipalities increased by over 10% from the previous year - the single largest increase for a commodity. This is despite the fact that the total tonnage of Blue Box materials marketed decreased by 1.7%.

This reflects the fact that more and more Material Recovery Facilities (MRFs) have adopted the practice of sorting cartons into their own grade, in order to maximize their environmental and economic value. CCC offers support in the form of on-site visits to help facility operators transition to this practice, or to assist with any other carton sorting optimization efforts. Please contact us directly to arrange a visit to your facility.

END-MARKET SPOTLIGHT: THE REWALL COMPANY

In December 2015, CCC's Managing Director was part of a Carton Council delegation who visited Des Moines, Iowa-based The Rewall Company, a recycler which converts used cartons into high performance green building materials. The process uses the whole carton and does not require any water nor does it produce any emissions. It was fascinating to see the final product - roof cover board, made from carton bales collected through Canadian recycling programs.

Rewall represents a new end-market option for recovered cartons in addition to the existing paper mills. MRF operators wishing to obtain more information should contact Jan Rayman, the company's CEO.

DIGITAL CARTON RECYCLING RESOURCES NOW AVAILABLE

The CCC has developed a toolkit of customizable carton recycling ads and images that can be used by municipalities to support residents' education efforts. New formats are now available.
